Partners Meetings

Updated: Jan 4, 2024

FindingPheno commenced with an online Kick-Off Meeting (KOM) where partners 'met' each other and started relationship building despite the global pandemic isolation. We had a productive meeting but missed the interactions, engagement and energy coming from in-person get-togethers. We decided to have a 2-day in-person Partners Meetings running alongside our upcoming external Stakeholder Synergy Meeting (SSM).

So that is what we did! The last week of October was action-packed with project partners traveling to Copenhagen for three days of scientific updates, outreach planning and general idea sharing. The schedule started and ended with the Partners Meetings on Days 1 and 3, and the one-day SSM on Day 2. This format allowed us to further bond as a consortium, and approach the upcoming external perspectives, new ideas and connections as a team.

The Partners Meetings were productive with lots of good energy, camaraderie and smiles as can be seen in the group photograph of the FindingPheno consortium below.

The SSM was a success, with excellent talks and a lot of interaction and networking among participants and guests. You can find our meeting report here, which also officially fulfills our second project milestone. Meanwhile, all project members left feeling energized and excited, about the project and the wider potential for big data analysis in hologenomic applications. There is something special about getting everyone together in the same room, especially for a project focused on data analysis and computational work like this one. We are already looking forward to the next in-person meeting!
